Official duties

Your Key Club will be as strong as your officer team, and that team is designed to empower each officer to carry out his or her own duties. When your officers work with one another, the team's success will take precedence over individual success. Below is a list of official duties related to your position, but feel free to add to it based on the needs of your club.

Create a club website.

Maintain accurate and upto-date information on your club's website.

IMPORTANT NOTES

- 1 Each club will decide which duties will be the webmaster's and which duties will be the editor's. The two positions should work together to ensure the club's message and activities are shared with a diverse audience.
- Refer to your school or organization policies or rules prior to creating a website and social media accounts for your Key Club.

KEY CLUB®

Share your club's activities on social media.

Help recruit members by sharing your club's story through online outlets.

Engage with members through web-based outlets.

Be the Creator

Websites serve as member resources, as well as tools to inform the public of the great work a club is doing. A website even can become a great recruitment resource. Effective websites contain calendars, meeting agendas, past meeting agendas, newsletters, photo galleries and a place for other students to connect with your club. Websites can take many forms and contain many design elements. There are a few ways to create websites. Not a single one of the following programs is best for all cases, but you'll find some options to start with. Choose whichever is best for you and your club.

Web-based programs offer many options for website design and do not require coding knowledge or experience.

Wix / Weebly / Squarespace

Software programs require more work and provide more freedom for you to create your website.
 You will have more control, but using software requires the ability to write code to use the programs effectively.

Be the Manager

Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, Pinterest, Snapchat ... the list goes on. Today's students are more connected than ever, and they are getting more information from these social media sources than from traditional news outlets. Below are some tips about social media and its use.

- When to post Make sure your content is timely. Don't post about events that happened two months prior. However, it can be fun to post about events that happened the year before. For example, if your club is promoting your annual haunted house, post pictures of last year's event to get people excited.
- What to post Each social media platform is a little different regarding what is best to post. Below are some tips for Facebook, Twitter and Instagram. For more ideas on general content, refer to your Key Club weekly email sent on Mondays.

Facebook

Highlight members Create events and invite friends Share photos, text and video Create a private group for board members to talk DON'T share irrelevant information that doesn't benefit the club

Instagram

Post meeting and event reminders in a fun and attractive way Use your club's hashtag Showcase your members and service projects DON'T post "questionable" photos

Twitter

Create a hashtag specific to your club for members to use Share event reminders, as they can be retweeted Connect directly with members DON'T tweet about inside jokes

- Who to follow It's really up to you to decide who your account follows. Try not to let the number of people you follow heavily outweigh the number of followers you have because that might indicate to potential followers that you aren't worth following. When following people, engage with content that is relevant to Key Club. Don't randomly like pictures of Joe's cat. That's creepy. (Unless the cat is at a shelter where Key Club is volunteering.)
- Public vs. private accounts Your club always has the option to make your Twitter or Instagram accounts private, but unless your school has certain rules about club accounts, it's best if they are kept public. When your accounts are public, it allows more people to see the amazing projects you are working on. However, if you have accounts for your officers to keep in touch with each other it's best for them to use a private group.
- Photo releases It is best to have your members' parents sign a photo release once a year. You can find a generic Kiwanis photo release at kiwanis.org/photorelease.
- Grammar Use proper grammar, spelling and punctuation when possible. Twitter is the only place where it is more acceptable to make exceptions when trying to fit a lot in one tweet.
- Venting Do not use social media as a place to call out members or to complain about an event. Always post positive messages. Remember to T.H.I.N.K.

T – truthful

H – helpful

I – inspiring

N – nice or necessary

K – kind or Key Club related

- Announcements Although social media is immediate, do not rely on it for important announcements. It can be a supplemental tool, but cannot replace all other channels.
- Tagging Social media works through connections and relationships. When possible, tag the people in photos, the organizations being served, your school, and anyone else connected to the post so they can share the information.
- Schedule posts Many social media sites or host sites, like Hootsuite, will allow you to schedule posts in advance. Using these services can allow you to post even when you personally may not be available to post. Be aware of the content you are scheduling in case something happens that no longer makes those posts applicable or appropriate.

Guidelines for social media responses: ////

Be cautious when responding to controversial posts. Don't respond when someone has made an angry post or inappropriate comment about Key Club or a member of your club. Give thoughtful consideration to responding to negative posts based on incorrect information and to posts expressing general unhappiness. Also be sure to talk with your advisor about them.

Key Club campaigns

Get your club involved in Key Club International social media campaigns. By using the following hashtags, you'll be able to see what Key Clubs around the world are doing and you might inspire other clubs by posting the projects your club is working on.

Be the Brand Advocate

In all of your communications activities, follow the Key Club Brand Guide (keyclub.org/brandguide). A brief guide can be found on the next page. That's where you'll find important guidelines, established with the help of experts and designers, for using specific fonts, colors and other visual elements. You'll help unify Key Club International under one look, keeping it recognizable around the world. Doing so helps make your club recognizable. All of your club members—including fellow officers—should be familiar with these standards. Share the information and provide guidance where you can!

In publications and presentations, an optional display font can be used for text such as pull quotes and title slides. Remember, display fonts work best when they're not overused. (Rule of thumb: no more than about 10% of the entire copy.) Our suggested display font, Abril Display Extra Bold, is shown in the Key Club Brand Guide. However, using a display font that's not in the brand guide will not result in point deduction for anyone applying for a distinguished officer award.

Key Leader

There are lots of great places to learn more about leadership. Did you know there is a special program for Key Club students to learn about leadership, make new friends and learn about what it means to pursue excellence? Key Leader is a weekend leadership development experience open to any high school student who is interested in leadership. Many clubs also find that their sponsoring Kiwanis club, local businesses or school will help them pay the registration fee. You can learn more about Key Leader and what programs are happening in your area at key-leader.org.
